IV. LOVING

A graduate of Loyola has begun to establish his own identity and move beyond mere self-interest by forming deeper relationships with others, valuing personal friendships, and embracing his relationship to the greater community.

V. COMMITTED TO JUSTICE

A graduate of Loyola is aware of many needs of the local and global communities and is beginning to use his time and talents to work toward the further development of a just society in light of Ignatian ideals. The graduate is preparing to take his place in the community as an accomplished, concerned, compassionate, and responsible “Man for and with Others.”

VI. DEVELOPING AS A LEADER

A graduate of Loyola is aware of and practices the basic skills that facilitate leadership and collaboration. The graduate has had opportunities to exercise such leadership and collaboration in academics, co-curricular activities, and campus ministry.

The Star-Spangled Banner

*Oh, say can you see
by the dawn's early light
What so proudly we hailed
at the twilight's last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars
through the perilous fight
O'er the ramparts we watched were so gallantly streaming?
And the rocket's red glare,
the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night
that our flag was still there.
Oh, say does that star-spangled banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?*

***

THE PETER F. FILICE, SJ AWARD is presented to a senior who has consistently distinguished himself academically in the most challenging courses Loyola has to offer.

***

THE FRITZ B. BURNS OUTSTANDING SERVICE AWARD is given to a student who has contributed conspicuously to activities of the school, often without recognition and always with hard work.

***

THE JSN AWARD is presented to a student who most closely resembles this ideal: A well-rounded person who is intellectually competent, open to growth, religious, loving, and committed to doing justice in generous service to the people of God. It is awarded to one student at each of the Jesuit high schools in the United States.

***

THE LOYOLA AWARD is Loyola's highest honor. It is conferred upon a student who, in addition to general excellence, most nearly embodies the Christian ideals enumerated by the patron of our school, St. Ignatius of Loyola.

THE VALEDICTORIAN AWARD is given to a student chosen from among those seniors who have, throughout their years at Loyola, distinguished themselves by genuine academic achievements and by participating in the extracurricular activities of both the school and the community. # Academic Attire

The history of academic dress reaches far back into the early days of the oldest universities. A statute of the University of Coimbra, Portugal, in 1321 required that all “Doctors, Licentiates, and Bachelors” wear gowns, and in England in the second half of the fourteenth century, statutes of some of the colleges forbade “excess in apparel” and prescribed the wearing of long gowns. The unheated buildings of the medieval scholars and the tonsured heads of many clerics undoubtedly contributed to the development of the hood which (like the monk’s cowl) was designed simply to keep the head warm. Such a functional hood was superseded eventually by the skullcap.

European institutions continued to show a diversity in academic dress, but American colleges and universities in 1895 agreed to a standard style and form to be used all over the country. Subsequently, in 1932 and again in 1959, this academic code has been revised and appropriate colors and styles prescribed. There are three types of gowns: the bachelor’s, the master’s, and the doctor’s. These are differentiated mainly by the cut of the sleeves and the velvet trimming on the doctor’s gown. Hoods, corresponding to each of the degrees, also differ in length, size of trimming, and their shape. The color of the velvet band around the hood designates the subject field of the degree; the width of the velvet band denotes the level of the degree; the two-color silk lining of the interior of the hood conforms to the school colors of the university which granted the degree.

In today’s commencement, the faculty is wearing the colors of and representing the following colleges and universities: Azusa Pacific University; Bemidji State University; Berkeley Graduate Theological Union; Butler University; Caldas University; California Institute of Technology; California Institute of the Arts; California Polytechnic State University, Pomona; California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo; California State University, Dominguez Hills; California State University, Long Beach; California State University, Los Angeles; California State University, Northridge; Chapman University; Claremont Graduate School; Columbia University; D’Youville College; Georgetown University; Indiana University, Bloomington; Jesuit School of Theology, Boston; La Roche College; Long Island University; Loyola Marymount University; Loyola University of Chicago; Mt. ## The Shield of Loyola High School of Los Angeles

The seal of Loyola High School represents the lineage of St. Ignatius of Loyola, founder of the Society of Jesus, along with an “L” in the top right corner of the seal, representing the school itself. The seal first appeared on campus in the stained glass door at the entrance to Ruppert Hall, dedicated in 1926. The seal combines the two family bearings brought together in the 1261 marriage of Beltrán Ibáñez de Oñaz, the lord of Loyola, and Marina Sánchez de Licona. The Loyola bearing, on the bottom right of the seal, depicts two wolves feeding from a cauldron, referencing a long-ago famine in the Basque highlands in which the Loyola family fed even the starving animals of the surrounding forests. The familial representations of the wolf (lobo) and cauldron (olla) developed into the name of Loyola (lobo y olla). The Oñaz bearing, the bars on the left of the seal, represent the heroic brothers of the Oñaz family, who distinguished themselves in battle. The cardinal and gold included in the seal are the Oñaz family colors, while the navy blue of the L and the blue and white stripes on the left are Loyola High School’s traditional colors.
